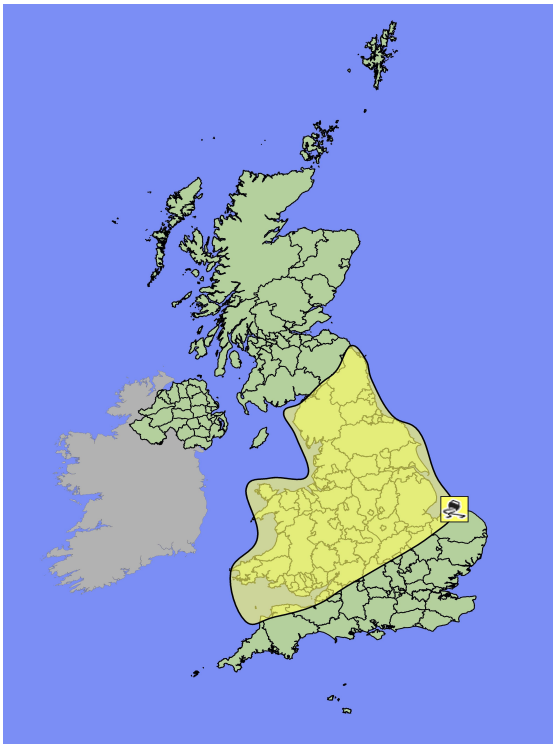
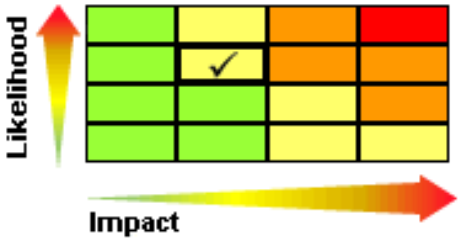
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Snow showers have struggled to settle on roads during the daytime but as road temperatures fall this evening settling will take place more readily, although the frequency and intensity of snow showers will tend to reduce. Ice will form on untreated roads and pavements that have been left wet by melted snow from the daytime.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 18:00 on Mon, 11th Mar 2013 until 09:00 on Tue, 12th Mar 2013

Snow showers will continue this evening before slowly becoming lighter and more isolated overnight. A further 1-3cm is likely in places whilst icy stretches are likely on untreated surfaces where snow melts and re-freezes.

The public should be aware of the potential for some localised travel disruption.
